

Contents

Introduction - Intentions of the symposium Bernd Ralle & Ingo Eilks	1
Goals of chemical education - Reality and perspectives Nicos Valanides	5
Chemical education research from the perspective of general research on teaching and learning Cornelia Gräsel & Ilka Parchmann	17
Research in didactics of chemistry in Germany – Perspectives for future teacher training Hans-Jürgen Becker & Henry Hildebrandt	27
Empirical research in chemical education – Priorities and paradigms Keith S. Taber	39
Empirical research in chemical education - A response Alan Goodwin	51
Empirical research in chemistry education in Germany – Actual situation and perspectives in times of TIMSS and PISA Elke Sumfleth	57
Some critical view on the use of concept mapping and visualisation techniques in science teaching at secondary schools and its role to evaluate students learning achievements Ludo Brandt	69
The role of teacher knowledge in the context of reform in chemical education Jan van Driel	75

Participatory Action Research within chemical education Ingo Eilks & Bernd Ralle	87
Developmental Research: Healthy & poisonous effects of substances Astrid M.W. Bulte, Hanna B. Westbroek, Kees Klaassen & Albert Pilot	99
Qualitative approaches in research of learning and instruction Philip Mayring	111
Chemistry education's contribution to scientific literacy - An example Wolfgang Gräber	119
What factors help research in chemical education have an impact on practice? Judith Bennett	129
Reflections from the symposium Ingo Eilks, Bodo Krilla, Bernd Ralle & Nicos Valanides	139
List of participants	143